Women with Disability Association (WWDA)

Catalog

WWDA is a non-profit organization to help women with disabilities. The association is located near the Lao-Thai Friendship Bridge and is open 7 days a week.

Most products sold through WWDA are hand made by women with disabilities at the association. Graduate students, current students and trainers all make these products, in which the proceeds of sales support the association's ongoing vocational training and advocacy activities for women with disabilities.

About us

Our vision is to be a successful organization of people with disabilities in Lao P.D.R. and empower people to utilize their skills by providing access to education and employment. People with disabilities can gain the knowledge and capacity to generate income through employment, thereby supporting themselves and contributing to the development of a successful society. We use a variety of techniques to make our products with a focus on sustainable materials and productive methods that young women with disabilities can easily learn to perform, and continue to make when they return back to their communities.

01 Ceramic Products

Working with clay “Kham Hien Het Din” can be a wonderfully engaging and creative experience. Try your hand at making pottery and learn more about the ceramic process. WWDA offers full day and half-day hands-on pottery workshops. You will see how the clay is prepared, be introduced to various forming techniques, and have the opportunity to create your brown clay masterpieces with guidance from the WWDA’s pottery staff.

02 Recycled Paper Products

The WWDA makes and sells a wide variety of products made out of recycled newspaper which is donated to the Association. We also offer activities for anyone interested to learn how to make pottery products. We use recycled paper for three reasons: to help the environment by reducing waste, because it is easy for our students to access when they return to their homes in other provinces, and simply because we think it is beautiful!
